

TRY is a nonprofit substance abuse program that has been helping youth and their families since 1973. We provide individual, group and family counseling. We have an extensive referral network to help youth and their families get the help they might need.

TRY provides substance treatment and services to the inner city Baltimore youth and their families that are high risk to drugs, crime and violence.

TRY has developed a comprehensive and innovative approach to counseling from a multicultural perspective.

TRY developed one of the first outpatient programs to establish and implement a specialty group that deals with adolescent drug dealers.

TRY incorporates a cognitive approach which addresses drug use and addiction, drug dealing, behavioral problems, family concerns, underachievement community, and legal issues.

TRY sponsors counselor-led prevention groups in several neighborhood public schools.

TRY provides counselors who go into public schools and work with students through the Baltimore Student Assistance Program (BSAP) and provides staff training for teachers.

TRY runs a summer program, which offers a variety of fun age-appropriate experiences to inner city youth.

TRY accepts referrals from schools, community, homes, Department of Juvenile Services, Department of Social Services, couples, inpatient facilities and provides aftercare curriculum for those being released from inpatient settings.

TRY refers clients who may require additional treatments to appropriate modalities for services that e.g. inpatient treatment, mental health treatment, Job Corps, etc.

TRY is an active member of Baltimore City Directorate (an organization which includes all of the public programs in Baltimore City) and the Baltimore City Adolescent Collaborative.

TRY has been a model test site for several innovative treatment and technology programs because of superior staff and prompt, efficient delivery of services.
